Visitor Concerns

There were many residents of Keever Creek Subdivision in attendance. They came to discuss water problems on their properties and the measures they have taken with the developer, their homeowners association and the Engineer's office. The subdivision slopes downward from the north side of the development and at the south end of the development the road and ditches run perpendicular to the slope. As storm water and naturally occurring ground water flows down it overflows the ditches. So, although the ditches have 3 outflow drains that are to pull the water to the retention pond, it is inadequate to handle the volume. Additional issues aggravating the problem include inadequate driveway pipes in the ditches, sump pumps dumping into the ditches and debris in the retention pond which is always full. Although the developer has tried to correct some issues the residents are still frustrated with the outcome. One resident whose home is at the lowest location in the subdivision has the largest ditch which he states if five feet deep, but it still overflows into his yard and the road. The Trustees voiced concern for the resident's problems and agreed to send Mr. Chasteen out to look again at everything. Additionally, Mr. Sams stated that discussion will occur with the County Engineer about ditch depth, sump pump outflow to ditches only when ditch fall is greater than 2%, sump pumps outflowing into yards, inadequate retention ponds and when curb and gutter should be required for high volume water management.
